ROUND THE WORLD FLYERS ON WAY TO LONDON

WORK PROGRESSES ON NEW R. U. H. S.

WEATHER HELD UNFAVORABLE ON FIRST LAP

No Report Received As Hours Pass Since Canada Hop-off

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The first race against time around the world by airplane was under way tonight with the Stinson-Detroit monoplane Pride of Detroit over the Atlantic on its way to London, the first stopping place.

DAY HOP

Edward F. Schlee, president of the Wayco Oil company of Detroit and William S. Brock hopped off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland at 5:14 eastern standard time this morning in their attempt to beat the world-gridding record of 28 days, 23 hours and 30 minutes, held by Edward S. Evans and Linton Wells, who used airplanes, steamships and trains.

CLOUDS, FOG REPORTED
As the hours wore on and the day passed without word from the airmen little concern was felt, the aviation-wise public recalling that on other transatlantic flights no progress report was received until the other shore was almost reached. Weather on this half of the ocean was not entirely unfavorable.

Dense clouds and fog were reported; but the winds of gale force in the region of Newfoundland were missing farther out. Moderate to fresh west and northwest winds were reported through all the course the aviators were expected to cover tonight.

SECOND HALF HARDEST
The second half of the ocean course was the more hazardous, according to predictions of the weather bureau.

From mid-ocean to the Irish coast it was said there would be strong westerly winds tomorrow, reaching gale force. On the slightly more southern course to France the gales could be avoided, although strong winds and showery weather were predicted.

TESTS MADE

Takeoff of Schlee and Brock followed a flight from Curtiss Field, where final tests were made of the Wright whirlwind motor and the various instruments.

By leaving today the fliers precluded the possibility of a three-cornered ocean air derby which had been hoped for by the crews of two other planes, the Sir John Carling, now at its starting point for a flight from London, Ont. to London, Eng., and the Royal Windsor, which flew today to Windsor, Ont. preparatory for a flight to Windsor, Eng.

A public whist party will be given by the Neighbors of Woodcraft next Wednesday evening at Odd Fellows hall. Prizes for the party are displayed in the window of Schrader's furniture store.

RADIATOR REPAIRS

The service of a shop that really understands cleaning and repairing automobile radiators is a great convenience. Take the precaution of having your radiator examined before you attempt a long trip. Fenders that have been injured can be made like new at the same time. You will find a good place to have this work done in the Buyers Guide on the classified page.

Honored!

MISS SOPHIE IRENE LOEB, who is credited with having obtained more constructive legislation than any other woman in the United States, has been invited by the social section of the League of Nations to address it at the forthcoming conference in Geneva on the subject of child welfare.

4,300 PHONES FOR RICHMOND

There are approximately 4,300 telephones in Richmond, according to George Calvert, manager of the Richmond exchange of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company. This is an increase of approximately 200 telephones as compared with September of last year, he declared.

New telephone directories were distributed to patrons throughout the city yesterday.

Father Named By Daughter For Battery

Glen Money, employed as a switchman in the local yards, has been arrested on a charge of battery signed by his daughter, Miss Margaret Money, 18, of 920 Filbert street, Oakland. The elder Money when taken to police station in Oakland declared that the charge is the outcome of his objecting to his daughter staying out late hours. When she returned at 2 o'clock Friday morning, he remonstrated with her and chastized her, he declared.

Robbers Frightened Away By Officer

When Deputy Constable Stevens of El Cerrito strolled along San Pablo avenue early Saturday morning, he prevented the probable robbery of the grocery store of D. Vallegia at San Pablo and Barrett avenues and aided in the recovery of an automobile stolen in Oakland last Thursday.

Stevens noticed that the door of the store was open when he approached, and notified the Richmond police. They discovered a pile of foodstuffs on the floor ready to be hauled away. Evidently Stevens' approach had frightened the marauders.

A light coupe found outside the door was identified as a car which had been stolen from a Richmond salesman.

MICHEL'S ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. L. Michel have as guests J. Michel, Mr. Michel's father, and his two brothers, Geo. and Edmund Michel at their home at 541 Fourth street. The visitors leave today for Europe on the American Legion convention tour.

NO NEWS FROM ANY SOURCE IN HOP TO BRAZIL

Believe Flyer Is Lost As Gasoline Supply Must Be Exhausted

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 27.—Fear that Paul Redfern, who hopped off here for Brazil Thursday in a Stinson-Detroit monoplane has been blown off his course and forced down on the northern coast of South America or some of the islands near Trinidad, was expressed late today by Paul J. Varner, chairman of the flight committee.

RELIEVED DOWN

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 27.—(Special cable dispatch to Universal service)—After fifty-three hours (living as official recorded here, Paul Redfern, the Georgian flyer, has little chance of reaching Rio de Janeiro. His gasoline supply must be exhausted, and all indications are that Redfern was forced down, or will be, before morning.

NO NEWS

The National Telegraph company reports no news of the intrepid Southern aviator. Absence of news of Paul Redfern, the young American aviator who is flying from Brunswick, Ga. to Rio de Janeiro, is causing more apprehension here tonight.

53 HOURS WAIT

At this writing it is more than 53 hours since Redfern left Georgia on his 4600 mile hop. Since that time there has been little definite news, beyond an unofficial and unconfirmed report that he had been seen off the Cuban coast.

All wireless stations are on the qui vive for any news of the plucky aviator. The Brazilian government has placed all its resources at Redfern's service. But up to a late hour, the only report received from the radio operators at Manaus, Para and Recife (Pernambuco) was:

"Nothing doing."

BRAZIL WANTS FLYER
Everything has been put in readiness to receive the flyer should he land here at Campo Dos Alfonsos, the flying field.

The last official bulletin issued by the National Telegraph Bureau read:

"There is no news of Aviator Redfern from any source whatever."

Redfern does not carry wireless apparatus. This, and the fact that he is soaring over a most desolate region, accounts for the silence, according to many observers.

Iowa People Visit Local Relatives

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Nelson of Audubon, Iowa, who have been visiting at the home of C. F. Siemsen, brother of Mrs. Nelson of 124 Tenth street, leave Richmond this morning to continue a tour which has taken them through many of the cities of the middle-west and vacation resorts. While in the Black Hills of South Dakota, they passed the summer home of President Coolidge near which they camped and had the good fortune to shake hands with Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge.

From Richmond they will go to Los Angeles and LaJolla, where they have relatives, and friends and will take the southern route for home. They report a most enjoyable time, and since this is their first visit to the coast, have many memories to take back with them.

High Seas Marriage Bogus: 3 Miles Out, Didn't Take

When the seas aren't any "higher" than three miles out and the official no higher than a tug captain, marriage on the high seas is not quite as binding as the popular concept has it.

At least this was the unofficial opinion in Oakland by several attorneys and one Superior Judge.

The marriage under question was that performed three miles out of San Diego harbor on July 29, 1923, by a tug boat for Francis Golden, 21, and Jack W. Thornburg, 26.

The attorneys in the case had an informal discussion of high sea marriages before Superior

Further Restrictions Asked In Carquinez Straits Fishing

Extension of fishing restrictions in Carquinez Strait and Suisun bay has been requested by the Associated Oil company and the Union Oil company, according to announcement made yesterday by Charles H. Layne, chief clerk of the War Department's board of officers on fishing regulation.

With the companies petitions seeking restrictions for more rig than those imposed recently following request of navigation companies, the Sacramento River Fishermen's Union is expected to voice determined opposition to the plan.

The oil companies, according to Layne's notice, seek to prohibit fishing in the southern half of Carquinez Strait and in the southern deep water channel of Suisun bay between Dillon Point and 1000 feet east of the easterly end of the Associated Oil company's Avon wharf. The restriction would be made applicable to floating or drifting nets.

Navigation firms recently sought and obtained restrictions on fishing in the fairways of Carquinez Strait after a Matsen liner struck and sank a fishing boat. Fishermen, however, won certain concessions and accepted the fairways closing.

Layne has announced that interested parties should submit arguments on the proposal in writing.

Layne's announcement declares: "The existing regulation that prohibits fishing within 1000 feet of the face of docks and wharves from Eckley to Port Costa covers the restriction desired by the ap

Lions - Kiwanis Teams Defiant As High Moguls Promise Blood

Bats Padded to Prevent Homicide; Armed Men Patrol Ball Park

The date of the Lions-Kiwanis baseball game for the benefit of the War Mothers' Memorial building fund has been retarded one day and will be held on Friday afternoon at First street park at 1 o'clock. Friday was chosen so as not to conflict with the Labor Day week-end when many will be absent from the city.

CUT FOR BLOOD

Both teams are "out for blood." Bob Smith says that when the Lions get through with "those Kiwanis perches," there won't be enough left on their carcasses to feed a crow. And from all appearances the Lions are determined to make good their threat.

KIWANIS' SNAIL ANSWER
Then, there's the other side of the controversy. Dr. Bob Root, says: "Look what we did last time. That's nothing to what we're going to do next Friday."

So there you are. "You pay your dime and take your choice."

FEAR MOB VIOLENCE
Now if some Succo-Vanzetti sympathizers refrain from loading the bats with dynamite, there ought to be some ball clouting that would make the Standard Oil league look like a bunch of corner-lot kids. It's a safe bet that the fans will get their money's worth Friday evening and that the War Mothers will swell their fund for the memorial.

Judge H. V. Alvarado of Richmond sitting in extra session in Oakland and concluded that the marriage performed for the Thornburgs was not a marriage at all. "Mrs. Thornburg" is asking an annulment and custody of their two children, 1 and 2 years old. There is also community property valued at $40,000.

In the meantime the two children are being kept in a "certified" home at Lafayette.

B. McKenzie permission to secure the deposition of Mrs. Delia Birmingham of Chicago with whom Miss Leighton resided when she lived in Chicago. Interrogatories of the deposition, understood to cover queries regarding Miss Leighton, will be presented in court Monday.

Rev. Lindemann To Give Vacation Type Sermon

Council To Hold Budget Meeting

The Richmond city council will hold a short session before the regular business meeting tomorrow night at the city hall to discuss the proposed budget for the year.

It is thought that the budget will be announced at the session of the council and at this time the residents of this city will learn whether or not the tax rate will be increased and whether the firemen and police officers receive a raise in salary.

Two meetings have been held by the committee of the council and the questions were discussed, but nothing definite has as yet been accomplished.

MASONRY NEAR COMPLETION ON MAIN BUILDING

Laboratories And Gyms Take Form; Roofing To Be Done

Work on the new Richmond Union high school has progressed to such an extent that greater portion of the structural work has been completed.

ROOF TILES LAID
The main buildings, containing the auditorium, administration offices and classrooms, and facing on Twenty-third street, are ready for the interior work. Workmen are laying the tiles of the roof on this part of the building and have nearly completed the work.

READY FOR ROOFING
Brick masons are raising the walls of the laboratories in the east wing, part of which is already under the roof. The structural part of the power house is completed and roofed.

GYM GOING UP
The gymnasiums, to the rear of the buildings, are taking form. The steel framework has been completed in readiness for the brick-layers when they have completed the laboratory wing.

One of the features of the buildings is the location of the staircase walls, independent of the other portions of the buildings, insuring perfect fire protection for the safety of students.

RUSH WORK SCHEDULED
Carl Overea, general contractor of the high school, is rushing the work as much as feasible in an effort to have it completed for the next term.

The walls of the buildings are of tapestry brick in several tan shades giving a warm, buff-colored mass which with cream-colored terra cotta trim and red tile roofs will make the new high school, when completed, one of the best architecturally in the Eastbay region. The equipment will be modern in every aspect.

TO MAKE AMERICA AMERICAN

Secretary of Labor Davis has called upon the national industrial council, which embraces 312 associations, and a total of about 75,000 employers of labor, for a check-up on all so-called "radicals" and aliens who have illegally entered this country, and many of whom are flouting our laws and sowing seeds of discontent with our form of government. It is proposed to list these people and make sure that they have a legal right to be in this country.

This plan will receive the hearty endorsement of every American, native or naturalized, employer or employee, and will undoubtedly result in a general shaking up in many communities.

But the investigation should not be limited to foreign laborers—it should include all activities. Aliens occupying positions of influence, some of them editing newspapers, are far more dangerous than the hood carrier or the coal miner. Then there are others engaged in writing books on internationalism, denouncing or ridiculing our government as compared to the monarchical system. Most of our public libraries contain many of these volumes—far more dangerous than any socialistic book that can be named. Let's "make America American" and keep it so by inaugurating a general house-cleaning.

The National Industrial Conference Board reports that more than 2000 millions or about one-fourth of all public expenditures in 1925 was spent on education. This represents an increase of nearly 70 per cent over 1890, per pupil.

New York police force is to have an evening dress squad, while Los Angeles policemen are to wear red to render them more conspicuous.

Marshall Haig says America did not win the war. While we have yet to learn who did win the war, it is becoming more and more apparent that the people of the United States paid a big part of the bill.

They are building elevated streets in New York now and this ought to boost the sale of window blinds to some extent.

Today is yours. Tomorrow may be—or it may be the day of the funeral. If you know for sure what would you do with today?

The newest thing in automobiles has the rear seat turned around with a large observation window. It also helps to abolish backseat driving.

You can enjoy your vacation right at home. Just put a cinder in your eye and get some kind of insects to bite you.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

AUGUST 27

This is the birthday of Vice-President Charles J. Dawes and of Miss Grace Kearns, whose lovely soprano voice has brought her success both on the concert platform and as one of New York's best known singers. Miss Kearns' horoscope shows pronounced dramatic and musical talent, which is combined with a steadiness of character and persistent determination which could not fail to bring her success.

The presence of Mars, planet of energy, in the sign of song, in trine to the Sun and on good terms with Jupiter, shows that her chief interest lies in singing. But she has more than a beautiful voice; she possesses that keen appreciation of artistic values which marks the true artist.

Though Mercury has been accepted as the ruler of Virgo, many astrologers feel that this adaptable and rather volatile planet does not express the deeper characteristics of Virgo. With Gemini, the twin-stern, Mercury has much more in common with its rapid changes of mood.

It is suggested that Vulcan, a planet thought by astronomers to exist in close proximity to the Sun is the real ruler of Virgo. In the mythological stories preserved for us by the poets of ancient Greece and Rome, Vulcan stands at the forge and fashions the armor and ornaments of the gods. He is the practical worker, the artist craftsman, intent upon doing his work well.

He has a powerful and muscular body, but he is lame. He tests and purifies in his glowing furnace the materials he is given, just as the people of Virgo test and discriminate and demand that proof be given them of the truth.

Vigorous Health

What is the cause of a blood shot eye? The patient is an elderly lady who was operated on last December for cataracts. She was told to bathe the eye with water.

MRS. P. J. F. The cause may be a simple inflammation, but the cause of it is not clear. The patient has been removed and the eye of the operation have no doubt weakened the eye. Bathing in hot water is all right while the inflammation is acute. It allowed immediately by cool water, but as soon as there has been some improvement, cold water alone is used. Eye rest is observed and attention is given to the general health.

Whenever the weather gets more than usually warm my baby suffers with prickly heat. What is the cause and cure?

MOTHER. The most common causes are overfeeding and overclothing. As the weather becomes warmer less and less clothes are needed. During hot spells the baby can go practically naked. Cool baths are also used. A hot spell seldom lasts more than a few days and during this time the quality of food can be reduced one third. Milk and fruit are the main items to use. In children old enough to take cereals an excess of these may be a cause. Extreme cases may need a day on orange juice.

Have been told by a chiropractor that it would be impossible for me to have a boy because of my bones being too close together. Can anything be done for this?

MRS. G. V. H. If the bones are much too close together it will probably be impossible for you to have a normal birth, but you could still have a baby via a Caesarian operation if your health will permit. If the bones are only slightly too close, health building measures, together with proper diet and general care during pregnancy would likely permit normal birth.

What Your FACE TELLS

©c. 1927- by Betty Morrison PSYD.

WHY THE "LOST HER" "PERFECT 36"?

This is the woman who was a perfect 36 until after she began to settle down and sit for countless hours inactive. With a deep grief in her heart she realized that her lovely frocks, one after another are growing too small yet she has an instinctive craving for rich foods, a childish love for pastry, chocolates, nuts and sweets. The every sight of food or drink makes her hungry and thirsty.

This is the woman who doesn't care for sports of any kind. She never walks when she can ride, and rides only when father drives to the door to get her.

It is this woman's mirror that says "You are getting funny looking. Look at your large ankles, pudgy hips double chin and surplus flesh everywhere. How about a daisy dozen?"

It is this woman who argues with the scale and accuses it of making incorrect statements.

"It's the woman who seldom worries about anything," laughs and growls fat. A little thing like the dishes reposing all night in the sink or even a day or two, doesn't bother her a bit.

HYPOCHONDRIAC

This is the lady who is ill about three days a week, calls in the doctor, takes a lot of drugs and spends the other four days getting better, because she imposes upon nature. The digestive and nutritive systems preponderate in her make-up, and she permits physical urges to rule.

It doesn't matter if you are the owner of millions or have to struggle for your daily bread you will want to follow your natural urge. But you are the captain of your ship, and it's up to you to keep it out of dangerous places. We only require remedies because we violate the laws of life.

The round lumber, round bodied physical type woman engrossed in her pleasures, daily activities, business pursuits or household duties in most cases does not give sufficient care to her body. She overeats, neglects her exercise and becomes careless in her personal hygiene.

YOUR MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

By Patricia Lee

Fifty the tired business man who comes home at night with nerves at the breaking point because of the accumulated worries of the day. Fifty the wife, who is often the butt of cruel speeches that stab her to the very soul—cruel words that are not prompted by any malice toward her but which are merely the reaction of overwrought nerves.

Says the MAN

Dear Patricia Lee: Constant bickering and quarreling are the two things that are heading our marriage toward the rocks. To be perfectly fair I must admit that I am partly to blame, as I am temperamental. All day I work very hard in my little store and when I come home at night so tired I can hardly stand, my wife deliberately tries to annoy me with trifles. Almost before I realize it I fly off the handle and say things I don't mean. I think she ought to make allowances for me when I am tired and cross and hungry after a hard day.

WILLIAM H. It is too bad, William, that your wife isn't a little more diplomatic and that she doesn't wait until you are fed and rested before she "starts something." Too bad she can't laugh your ill temper and your hasty remarks off—how no every woman is built that way. On the other hand, do you think you have a right to come home unloosed and all the nerves, temper and irritability you have kept bottled up all day on a woman just because she happens to be your wife? You control your temper and your tongue when you are dealing with the outside world, don't you? If you can be polite, considerate and flattering to women whom you meet in business then certainly you can be the same way at home where so much happiness and unhappiness

SYNOPSIS Fabien, a young and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescaut, beautiful orphan, who is coveted by hideous Count Ravoir. Fabien saves her, but circumstances force her to surrender to Ravoir. She rejoins Fabien, and they live so extravagantly that Fabien is forced to capitulate a genius for cards. Ravoir, in revenge, causes Manon to be deported. Fabien stows away on the convict ship, but is thrown with the convicts. Fabien incites the convicts to mutiny, and chases an officer into the rigging.

CHAPTER XXV—Continued The ship was yawing from port to starboard and back again. It headed into the wind and then ran before it. The great sails slatted from side to side with a force that threatened to bring all the rigging down on the heads of the fighters below.

It was precarious footing for both Synnelet and Fabien but their intense fury and hatred for each other caused them to give little thought to anything except their own private grudge. Manon could not belong to both of them! Each man knew this and was determined that he would be the one to claim her.

Synnelet had the advantage and several times made desperate lunges at Fabien with his sword. Each time Fabien was able to get out of reach just in time. A heavy rolling sea almost brought Synnelet on top of Fabien as Synnelet leaped from the crew's net and Fabien clung to the rigging. With a smile of triumph the pampered nephew thrust forward, fiercely, with all his strength, toward Fabien's breast. The lunging of the ship into a wave caused an abrupt check for which Synnelet was unprepared. He struggled desperately to regain his balance but his feet lost their foothold and with a great cry of terror he dangled perilously by his hands a hundred feet or more above the deck. Like a huge human pendulum he swung by his hands from side to side at each roll of the ship. Piteously, Synnelet looked at Fabien and implored mercy. This was not the glorious ending he had planned for their combat, but in his desperation he forgot that just a moment before he had tried to plunge his sword into Fabien's breast.

It was only a question of seconds now. Synnelet's strength was fast waning. A sudden pitch and one hand lost its grip—a roll the other way and Synnelet, with a gasping cry, plunged down—down into the boiling sea below.

Like a man stunned, Fabien clung to the ship's ladder. God had taken upon Himself the punishment he had sought to mete out. Fabien's lips moved in silent prayer and his thoughts again returned to Manon. He must go to her. Half way down the ladder he paused to look below. The convicts were victorious and the lust of battle had turned into a lust of a baser sort.

The deported women had been taken from their quarters and as Fabien looked he saw one of the convicts pull a woman into his arms. Other women were running, terrified, about the deck—each pursued by a man who saw in her his reward for the battle he had just been through.

"What if one of them was Manon!" Quickly he descended and fought his way through the mad scramble on deck. At last he reached the cabin where he had left her. Softly he knocked on the door and as softly called her name. The bolt slid back and with a muttered, "Thank God!" Fabien took her in his arms. She clung to him in terror, sobbing as if her heart would break.

"Oh, Fabien—my dear! I thought you would never come back—and I was afraid you were gone so long. The women have been screaming and someone knocked, but I didn't open—I was afraid—" her words died away into a convulsive sob.

Fabien calmed her while he explained all that had happened. "I must leave you again, dear, to see if the convicts are really in command of the ship. You must be away with the old crew they will turn pirates and carry us out to sea. If I can find a boat we can manage to get it overboard, and reach America—land in sight now—remember! It is our only chance—I can see no other way of escape."

"Yes—hurry and find out—I would rather go adrift on a raft than stay here any longer." Manon had control of herself again and was thoroughly aware of their precarious outlook.

"I hope I find the convicts either nursing their wounds or cuddling their women. Let them do anything, just so long as they forget about you. I will return soon, dear!"

Manon stifled a sob. Swiftly their arms went about each other, their lips met—then she bravely sent Fabien out.

He sauntered around the deck. Signs of the conflict were everywhere. His own diabolic appearance failed to attract attention as he walked aft. Neither the Captain nor the Governor were to be seen; they had been imprisoned or slain and thrown overboard. Those of the crew who had not joined the mutinying convicts had met death or been thrown bodily into the hold.

Fabien's ruse to escape from the hold had been successful. He had anticipated, but the result was appalling. The convicts were in complete charge of the ship and running wild. Manon was in greater danger now than before.

He noticed that night was fast approaching. The shore line was faintly discernible. To his horror he discovered that they were headed away from land! From the stern, a life-boat lashed to the davits suggested a means of escape. While he was carefully examining the lashings to see how they worked, the giant approached and put his great arm familiarly around Fabien's shoulder.

"Well, friend," he said, "Your plan of escape worked! I've swapped places with the old Captain. I'm going to make him sweat down in the hold and use him for navvies later on." The giant was surprisingly verbose.

"Later on," interrupted Fabien, "What do you mean?"

"Well, you don't think we're heading for the penal colony to be wrapped up in chains again, do you? No! I—maybe we'll land some place else—and maybe we won't, but we got our own way and we'll have a colony of our own, at sea or on land, it don't matter. Keep an eye open on deck for me, friend, while I go below and make sure I don't use him for navvies, while I look things over." The grand swaggar the giant went below.

Fabien waited until he disappeared before darting into another doorway that led to Manon. After hearing the new Captain's plan, there was no doubt about the advisability of escaping in a lifeboat. "Manon—Manon!" whispered Fabien at the door, "Come dear—quickly!"

Immediately she appeared with a great coat wrapped about her and a man's hat pulled over her curls. "I am ready—but don't leave me again!"

"You darling! Never." Fabien smiled his approval at her thought in assuming a partial disguise, but there was no time for conversation or love making.

Without another word they went on deck, clinging to the shadows to make themselves inconspicuous. Going aft to the stern davits they crawled into the life boat. Fabien handled the ropes, hand over hand, until the boat hit the waves with a hard flat splash; then he loosened the ropes, shot the oars in place and rowed for the dim shore.

Presently a convict sailor spied them and raised an alarm. The deck swarmed with poorly disciplined seamen hurling various missiles at the little black spot in the darkness. Unable to hit the fugitives they cursed their luck and returned to new duties about the ship.

The sea was uncomfortably rough for a small boat but Fabien and Manon did not mind—land, a new land was not far away and it would be their home where they could begin life again—this time as man and wife.

Fabien pulled in the oars and crawled back to the wide stern seat with Manon. He kept one arm around her and the other hand on the rudder. She clung to him in terror, sobbing as if her heart would break.

"Oh, Fabien—my dear! I thought you would never come back—and I was afraid you were gone so long. The women have been screaming and someone knocked, but I didn't open—I was afraid—" her words died away into a convulsive sob.

New Election Test Suffrage In Turkey

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 26.—The strides made in the Turkish suffrage movement will be tested at the approaching elections when the women will make a very strenuous fight to obtain complete franchise.

It is confidently expected that the women will gain the full vote, but doubt is expressed as to whether they will be allowed to vote for representatives of their own sex only.

Westernization and wholesale adoption of the western parliamentary methods have been proceeding during the last two years under President Kemal Pasha by leaps and bounds and Angora and no departure from the feudal Turkish procedure under the sultans is regarded as too novel or terrifying.

The Union of Turkish Women made a special drive for rights during the presence in Constantinople of the Ghazi, Mustafa Kemal Pasha. In honor of his visit it was decided to propose that Constantinople be renamed Mustapha Kemal, dealing a blow to the name of the city famous first as the capital of the Roman Empire and later as the capital of the Ottoman Empire, and exercising an influence over human affairs rivalled only by Athens, Rome and Jerusalem.

Pittsburg Plans $50,000 Water Bond Issue

PITTSBURG, Aug. 27.—Proposal for a $50,000 bond issue for construction of a water reservoir in the hills near the new high school site, sinking of eight wells and improvement of the water distribution system will be laid before the Pittsburg board of trustees at its next meeting, City Manager Roy Watkins announced today.

Insufficient water and lack of adequate storage facilities is a pressing consideration of the proposed issue of bonds.

Watkins pointed out today that the city's sole storage capacity now is a tank of 100,000 gallons capacity. The city's daily consumption is 350,000 gallons.

Suggestion has been made that a site in the hills near the high school be used, where storage of 2,300,000 gallons would be made available through construction of tanks.

J. N. Ough, well specialist, declares a vein of water is available that will sustain eight wells.

The elevation is sufficient to give a pressure of fifty pounds for fire fighting purposes.

War Conditions Still Trouble To Moscow

Universal Service Staff Correspondent By E. L. DEUSS

MOSCOW, Aug. 27.—Partial war famine conditions exist in Moscow.

The wholesale buying of staple food products by thousands of people carried away by the war scare talk of the highest soviet officials, has caused a shortage. Prices are going up. Granulated sugar is unobtainable. Leaf sugar can be had at 18 cents a pound. Salt, flour and herring are difficult to buy.

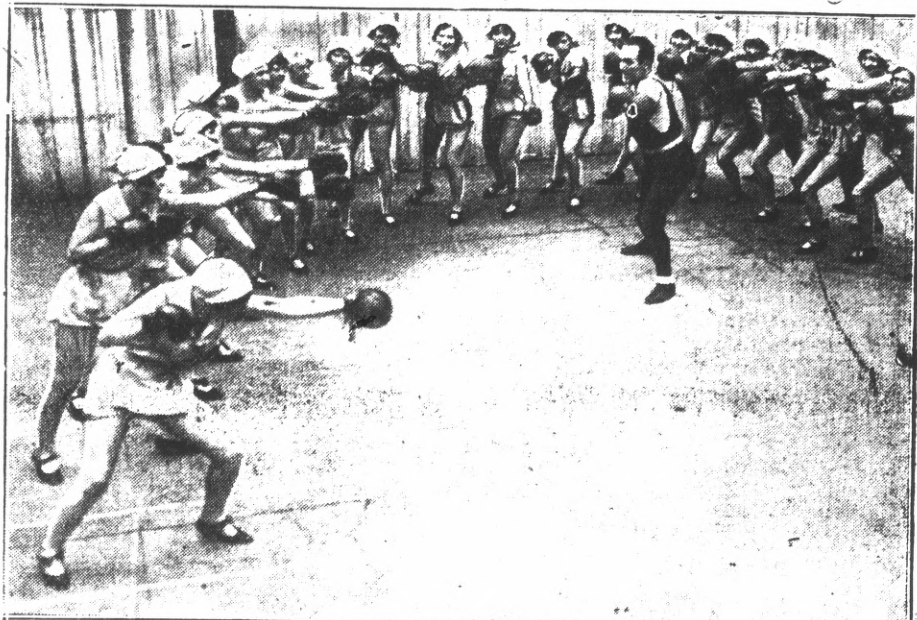

Many of the smaller groceries have sold out their stocks of these staples and cannot buy more from government owned jobbing establishments. In one case seven shops had to be visited before a pound of flour could be bought.

The buying wave started among the peasants, especially along the Polish frontier. Remembering the terrible famine conditions which existed during the World War, the peasants hoarded all the food they could buy. The same process took place in Moscow, Leningrad and other cities, but because of the large food stocks, the shortage are being felt only now.

Hotels and restaurants are well supplied, but they are not inconvenienced. But the Soviet government has realized the danger of further food hoarding and has called a halt to the defense propaganda.

The official explanation for the shortage of sugar is the fruit canning season. Herring, a favorite dish, is scarce, it is said, because the Soviets have ceased buying Scotch fish since the British break and substitute orders in Norway have not yet been filled.

Cashier's Trial Ends First Week

CARSON CITY, Aug. 27.—Following four days of cross-examination by the defense, former Cashier H. C. Clapp, of the Carson Valley Bank was still on the stand as the $500,000 embezzlement trial of Ed Malley and George Cole, former state officials, today concluded its first week.

Efforts on the part of the defense attorneys to shake the testimony of Clapp, the state's star witness, that Malley, Cole and himself were responsible for the half million dollar shortage proved unavailing. The former cashier admitted, however, that he had destroyed many of the cashier checks used in the transactions and that he had made no record of them.

Critics Roast New Red Ballet

MOSCOW, Aug. 27.—"Red Poppy" the latest Russian ballet of the Grand Theatre, is being roasted by Moscow's dramatic critics as a flop. Title, plot, scenes and all were designed to meet the popular craving for a flaming red ensemble in harmony with the revolutionary spirit of the country.

"But a ballet, it seems, will always be a ballet," said the critics. "It is glued to the Czarist regime. The dances and costumes won't change. And the incomparable first ballerina, Madame Ekaterina Gelster, with all her 60 years, can't change."

"Red Poppy" is a revolutionary love story growing out of the bonds of sympathy between the Soviets and the Chinese people. A pretty little Chinese dancing girl, Lea Chu, idol of the Shanghai cabarets, escapes seduction at the hands of several avaricious foreigners. Nobody understands that a dancer need not be a man's plaything. She meets the captain of a Soviet ship. His natural sympathy for oppressed peoples attracts Lea. They fall in love and in the end are happily married.

Mme. Gelster, as Lea, looks no whit of her age, but she alone could not pull the ballet through. The first night audience clamored for modern clothes for dancers in an ultra-modern piece. It ran the scheduled two performances at the season's end and then was taken off the Grand boards to be rejuvenated and put on again for the regular run next fall.

Sacco Rites Are Scheduled For Tomorrow

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—Superintendent Michael H. Crowley of the Boston police today ordered every policeman on the force on duty for tomorrow, when the funerals of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti are to be held, but indicated that he did not expect any disorder.

"I believe," he said, "this will be a perfectly orderly funeral procession, and as such it will be given protection to the fullest extent by the police."

Altering their previous plans for an elaborate procession with a band from the north end Italian quarter to the crematory at Forest Hills, the Sacco-Vanzetti defense hearses will be followed by not more than 200 mourners. This change was made because a permit was necessary for a larger procession and city authorities stipulated that it must follow the most direct route.

For the smaller procession no permit is required and the police will not interfere with the committee's desire to have it pass the State House and the Common, scene of numerous demonstrations by sympathizers before the execution of the two men. Mrs. Rose Sacco and Miss Luigia Vanzetti will ride in automobiles directly behind the two hearses. There will be no band.

A comparatively small number of persons today viewed the bodies of the two men in the north end undertaking establishment, where they were viewed by thousands yesterday. A heavy rain was largely responsible.

Preached Too Hard For Them, Says Girl Evangelist On Tour

PIGGOTT, Ark., Aug. 27.—Miss Garnett Gunter, twenty-one, the youngest woman preacher and evangelist in this section of the country, has resigned from the pastorate of the First Christian church in this city and a big revival that she had planned has been called off.

"It would have been too expensive to conduct the revival," the elders of the church told her. "I just preached too strong for them," came back the young woman minister.

The decision not to hold the revival was transmitted to Miss Gunter when she returned from Alton, Ill., where she had gone to hear Aimee McPherson, the Los Angeles temple preacher.

Whether this had anything to do with the elders' decision was not disclosed. In some quarters people asserted that Miss Gunter had some of the earmarks of the practices that marked the work of Mrs. McPherson.

Old-fashioned religion has been what her parishioners have been hearing since she has been preaching at the First Christian church.

"The old-time faith of our fathers, straight out of the Bible," is what I stand for," declared Miss Gunter.

She says she likes to hear the people cry out "Amen" and "Hallelujah."

"Then I know they are not a valley of dry bones," asserted Miss Gunter.

"I believe in the doctrines of the church and I preached too strong for them—and they said so themselves," went on Miss Gunter.

"One of them even went so far as to tell me if I preached smoothly and didn't trample on any one's toes I'd get along all right. It is then when I sat down and wrote out my resignation."

"What do you think of the modern dance?" she was asked. "My feet are too busy running errands for the Lord to want to participate in the dance," she replied.

"What is your opinion of a petting party?" was another query. "Consecrated young people are too busy and have no place or time for three or four hours at a midnight petting party," was her answer.

"What advice do you give couples you marry?" "Not being married myself, I can't give them much, but I do tell them to keep sweet, make the best of all disappointments and trust in the Lord," she concluded.
